

The Coca-Cola Secret

Chapter 1 : An ordinary life

Kevin Costheudich is a house keeper, who lived in a small city near London. He's 40 year old, and live alone with his two children since his wife died 2 years ago in a car crash. Kevin Costheudich worked in a Coca-Cola factory but he quited last year because he wanted to spend more time with his children. He decided to do a part time job. Actually Kevin 6"0' tall person. He has a beard and brown hair. He has also wonderful blue eyes.

But since his wife dead, he has been depressed.

This morning, he woke up and there was no one at home... In fact, since two weeks, because Kevin has financials problems, his children lived in their aunt's house. He ate his breakfast, dressed and went to his job without saying a word.

He didn't already know, but the days who would follow would be the most unforgettable days of his life...

Chapter 2 :

However Kevin was not an ordinary worker because he was one of the 10 people in the world who knew the secret of the Coca-Cola's recipe. One day, two months ago, he still worked as a house keeper in the Coca-Cola's factory. He was the 20th hired for this job so he had to work until the morning. His last room to clean was the employer's office. While he was cleaning the desk he found a paper with the inscription: 270C42B

He quickly realized that this code was the key of the safe where was kept the Coca-Cola recipe

Here is how his nightmare started
