

Chapter five:

Freddie was alone and lost in the dark forest. He walked for a long time but he was hurt and tired. His right arm was covered with blood. He couldn't stop crying.

Suddenly, Freddie heard a thing but he didn't know what he heard.

He started to run in the wood, towards the strange noise he heard. He was deseperated and terrified, it was the worst night of his life.

He climbed up a hill and suddenly, he saw a road!!!!

He couldn't believe his eyes. He was safe! He walked to the road. He was so relieved he stopped for a moment on concrete and thought back to his friends he had lost during this anocious night. But he was safe, him.

He has just time to hear the blakson noise and to see the lights of highlight in front of him before the truck crushed him...